We have been asked to share a call for participants for a new study being conducted by Dr. Stacy Loeb and her colleagues at NYU Grossman School of Medicine for Patients.

Dr. Loeb's new study is focused on helping men with prostate cancer and/or their families to improve upon sleep, nutrition and lifestyle. The team at NYU are recruiting patients with prostate cancer as well as any family members who may be interested.

As a reminder, Dr. Loeb has long been a friend to Fans for the Cure. She sits on our Medical Advisory Board, has attended a number of our Online Women's Support Group meetings, and was a guest on our Stay in the Game podcast.
