

How I Maintained Hope Through 17 Years of Lung Cancer Treatment

Listen to my interview on the “Lung Cancer Voices” podcast episode titled “A Special Interview with Dann Wonser (2023 Evening of Hope).”

December 26, 2023 By Dann Wonser

Friends and Family,

I had the honor of being interviewed for Lung Cancer Canada’s annual Evening of Hope. The full-length version of that video was turned into a podcast, which I think turned out well.

Ottawa Hospital oncologist Dr. Paul Wheatley-Price interviewed me about the evolution of lung cancer treatment over the past seventeen years, maintaining hope through treatment failures, the difference between surviving and thriving, challenges for caregivers, and other topics. The interview is heartfelt, vulnerable, and optimistic. Most people who read my blog should find this worth the listen.

You can access the interview wherever you get your podcasts (Google Podcasts, Apple Podcasts, Spotify, etc.). Just search for “Lung Cancer Voices” and then select A Special Interview with Dann Wonser (2023 Evening of Hope) dated November 14th. While you’re there, check out their other podcasts.

Or if you prefer, just follow this link:

<https://open.spotify.com/episode/0coPRmXI8hKnwpM6OJoR0J>.

I’d love to hear what you think of it.

Love,

Dann

This post originally appeared November 29, 2023, on Dann’s Cancer Chronicles. It is republished with permission.
