

Old Dog; New Tricks

Brain cancer blogger Adam Hayden can stay here —and he can also go there.

November 26, 2024 By Adam Hayden

Friends of Glioblastology, have no fear. This blog/newsletter continues to be my primary location for processing thoughts on life, illness, and philosophy. But I'd also like to discuss some topics that are not specific to the brain tumor experience. This is my only plug for a newsletter I just started today. If you like my writing and want to hear my perspective on a breadth of topics related to religion, politics, and who knows what else, I'll do that at Adam Marc Writes.

If that sounds interesting, you can get up to speed and subscribe using this link. If not, stay right here for all of my Glioblastology posts!

This is just a new space for me to write more expansively. xx. <3
