

Stay in the Game: Beyond Prostate Cancer: Exploring the Full Range of Urological Health

Episode 33 with Michael Volpe, MD NYC (former NJ) Urologist, Brooklyn-born. Married to Dr. Isabelle De Leon, assistant professor of anesthesiology at Mt. Sinai Medical Center. They began attending Yankee games together thirty years ago after meeting at SUNY Downstate College of Medicine.

May 23, 2024 By Fans for the Cure

---

Welcome to Stay in the Game: Conversations about Prostate Cancer with Ed Randall. Here we'll chat with doctors, researchers, medical professionals, survivors, and others to share and connect. This show was produced and shared by Fans for the Cure, a non-profit dedicated to serving men on their journeys through prostate cancer.

For many of us, our urologists arrived in our lives at a time of crisis and have confined their care to managing our prostate cancer diagnosis, treatment, and follow-up. But in an engaging conversation with host Ed Randall, Dr. Michael Volpe walks us through the gamut of urinary and reproductive organ conditions a urologist might encounter in a clinical practice. Dr. Volpe also suggests that as we age, we might want to consider adding a urologist to our medical team.

Dr. Volpe also shared stories about meeting his wife Isabelle in medical school in 1990 and bonding over their mutual love of catching the #4 train to take in Yankees games from their regular seats in the bleachers. And, of course, there is the surreal (and joyful) experience thirty-four years later of his son Anthony playing shortstop for his parents' favorite team.

To read the transcript click here and to listen to past episodes please click here.

---