Thank You! Over a Quarter Million Views on My Prostate Cancer Blog

Never in my dreams did I think a personal blog about prostate cancer would have such a reach.

August 11, 2022 By Dan Zeller

If you've read more than three posts on this blog, you already know that I'm a numbers guy. Well, on 29 July 2022, this little old blog that was created to share updates with family and friends has just surpassed a quarter million views from over 40,000 visitors.

Never in my dreams did I think this blog would have such a reach, so thanks to each and every one of you for following along and offering your insights and support.

With gratitude, —Dan
